

Dr. Himanshu Mittal completed M.Tech. Degree in Applied Geophysics (2000) from Kurukshetra University, Kurukshetra, Haryana and obtained Ph.D. in earthquake engineering from the Department of Earthquake Engineering, Indian Institute of Technology, Roorkee, India in 2011. His research expertise includes Strong motion Seismology (data collection and processing), site effects, and earthquake early warning. Dr. Himanshu Mittal has over 20 years of research experience and published more than 40 research papers. Presently, he is involved in various activities related to the National Seismological Network of the National Centre for Seismology.